Four Aeromodelers Qualify for Big Meet

A large crowd of spectators were on hand to witness the enthusiasm and teamwork of the Aeromodelers at their flying session Wednesday evening at the Wilson field. Although high winds cautioned the model fliers against stunting their models many fine flights were made. A similar session will be held again next Wednesday.

A special business meeting will be held by leader members on Monday evening to discuss future activities and methods of giving prizes to junior members in club competitions.

Four members of the Aeromodelers, James Van Sant, Jr., Thomas Pearson, Clarence Wells and Warren McQuaid have qualified as candidates to be selected as contestants in the International Model Plane competition sponsored by the Plymouth Motor Corp. in Detroit. Those selected will have all expenses paid to Detroit and during the week of the contest August 22 to 29 inclusive.

On July 31st a number of Bristol model fliers will compete in the Plymouth sponsored model plane meet at Allentown. Nearly every recognized event will be held.

UNHAPPY ENDINGS

Because of the country's unsurpassed private enterprise system and richness of resources, Americans have long been schooled to expect the happy ending. Until recently that point of view was reflected almost 100 per cent in the nation's literature.

Now many Americans are being influenced by propaganda which is slanted in a different direction. Their traditional great expectations are beginning to be tempered by the thought that perhaps things will not turn out so well after all.

The United States News, a magazine which reports and interprets governmental affairs at home and abroad, hazards a few interesting predictions. Among them are:

Old time virtues of frugality, hard work and self reliance will be played down. Stress of the "gimmies" will be intensified. The Treasury will be pumped for everything it can produce. When the dollars run low the taxpayers will be blamed by every country for not providing everything everybody would like to have.

Weaning time for Uncle Sam's foreign dependents is a long way off.

As for America's influence in foreign affairs, the News predicts that Uncle Sam's views will not be accepted abroad. American goods will be bumping against the artificial barriers of the countries holding their hands out for more and more of Uncle Sam's largess. The United States will pay the piper, but it will not call the tune.

In all conscience, isn't there something better than that in prospect for the United States of America? In stopping communism, must this country lose the respect of those it is saving? Surely the thought and action of America can produce a happier ending than that.

WASTED GESTURE

If anyone was about to say that the last place he'd dream of hearing the homey admonition "Be a good boy" would be in the U. S. District Court in New York where 11 U. S. communists are on trial, they can choke off the unuttered sentiment. For sheer aimless foolishness, the conduct of the defense during the 27 weeks the trial has been in progress takes some kind of prize.

Benjamin J. Davis Jr., New York City councilman and one of the defendants, earned the warning the other day from Judge Harold R. Medina, who is no Judge Kaufman. Judge Medina has already jailed two of the defendants and two spectators for outrageous conduct during court sessions. Presumably he wanted to warn Davis that the witness was getting close to the line.

Davis flared back that he wouldn't be a good boy, which is what might have been expected. So the judge's well meant gesture was largely wasted. On the basis of Davis' previous conduct, telling him to be good would have about as much effect as telling a rabbit to stay away from the lettuce.

Now-and-Then Beauty Routine Won't Accomplish Very Much

Courtesy Fuller Brush Co.
The average head of hair needs a weekly shampoo, so make this part of your regular beauty routine. To get it extra clean, try using a brush.

By HELEN FOLLETT

DON'T be a good-looks slacker. Fall behind with your beauty home work and you'll be giving yourself a black mark, won't make the grade. It is procrastination that gives pulchritude ills a head start. They are difficult to overcome when well established—the neglected complexion, for instance, is crying out for healing creams and lotions; hair that would respond and glisten at the friendly touch of the hair brush; nails that have gone brittle because they need an oily soaking.

If one's youthful looks are not to do a fade-away one must keep marching. Treat blemishes before they arrive; that is what you must do about wrinkles. You haven't got them, so condition your skin that it will not fall into fine lines, not before you are 100 years old anyway.

Make Plans

Make your plans, stick to them, willy-nilly, rain or shine. Brush your hair every night, maul your scalp for a few minutes, never space shampoos longer than a fortnight. By that time your wool is in need of renovating, will look dull and neglected. Don't fancy that putting the gay polish on your finger nails is all the attention they need. A little friction with cream every night will keep them delicate, of good coloring.

The daily bath will not only make you appear dainty, but it will put pretty pink blooms in your cheeks because it stimulates the health of the skin all over the body.

Give thought to eating habits, since nutrition has much to do with the strength of the teeth, the musculature of the body and—believe it or not—your disposition. Many women who are intent on reducing are fussy and ill-natured because they are hungry.

Get your beauty sleep. Don't overlook the need of exercise out of doors. Does all this sound like a big order? It isn't. It's a part of the daily job.

1ST TRANSCONTINENTAL FLIGHT MADE HISTORY

Trains Used for Portions of Trip; Big-Wigs Fight For Berths

PROGRESS IS SHOWN

By Leon Shloss

(I. N. S. Aviation Writer)
WASHINGTON, July 22—(INS)—

Only 20 years ago all America was agog over the first "transcontinental" air service. Today's millions take plane travel as casually as their meals, but thousands fought to take the first trip which accommodated only 20 persons.

A glance through the aviation history tomes provides striking evidence of the phenomenal progress which has been made. You need only read about those original "transcontinental" hops.

"Transcontinental" is in quotation marks because the journeys actually weren't. They comprised a train ride from New York to Columbus, a plane hop thence to Waynoka, Oklahoma, train again to Clovis, N. M., and then the last air jump to Los Angeles.

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, fresh from his conquest of the Atlantic, turned down all offers to enrich himself via the testimonial route, and laid out the system for Transcontinental Air Transport, which was to become today's TWA. For this the company paid him a quarter of a million dollars.

Lindy made so many preparatory flights that he told a questioner his home was in "the United States of America for awhile."

The Lone Eagle piloted the first eastbound plane on its first leg and then flew the first westbound plane to Los Angeles. Throngs gathered at every airport, with government, military and entertainment bigwigs fighting for parts in the ceremonies.

TAT worked for 14 months preparing the service. It found that of the thousands of pilots in the country, only 38 had enough experience to hire. Of these, 17 had to serve as co-pilot apprenticeships.

The 10 tri-motor Ford planes the company used held 16 passengers but TAT announced only 10 would be carried to provide maximum luxury and safety. "Tea and luncheon to be served aloft in aerial dining car service" made headlines when announced.

First flight was July 7, 1929. Price, including lower berths on trains, was $351.94. To cross the country by train in those days cost $220 with drawing room. The present TWA fare is $157.85.

The famed Amelia Earhart joined TAT just before the first flight to give advice concerning luxuries, refreshments, and other details which women demand on planes.

On the big day Lindbergh sat in the office of California's Gov. C. C. Young, where a telegraph loop had been rigged to Pennsylvania Station in New York City. At exactly 6:05 p. m., New York time, Lindy pressed a button which flashed a light in Penn Station. The Colonel said:

"As people begin to use airlines they will discover that speed, safety and comfort are to be found in the air. They will discover that they will make use of air transportation whenever possible or wherever it is available."

In Penn Station, the light flashed, a band played "California, Here I Come," and the train making the first leg of the first "transcontinental" flight moved majestically out of the terminal.

At Columbus next morning 6,000 people braved a drizzle to cheer the celebrated travelers on their way.

Meanwhile, at Los Angeles, Mary Pickford—dressed in white and bearing an armful of roses, broke a bottle of grape juice across the nose of a Ford tri-motor. She christened it "The City of Los Angeles." Shortly thereafter, with Lindbergh at the controls the plane took off on the first eastbound journey. A throng of 100,000 roared,

At Winslow, Ariz., the first leg was completed "without a single bump." When the westbound plane arrived at Winslow, Lindbergh took over the controls and piloted it into Los Angeles. There another crowd had assembled. As passengers told reporters "we've never been more comfortable or less worried," Gloria Swanson christened the plane. Grape juice again.

The westbound flight was not completed without a minor incident. The second section arrived at Los Angeles ahead of Lindbergh's plane and had to cruise around for half an hour to let the Colonel land first.

So it all began, with fanfare of bells and flashing lights, speeches and movie stars.

Now 20 short years later—short in transportation history—we just hop over to the airport and walk aboard unnoticed.

MEN OF MERIT

A part of this column is to preach personal safety. In this sketch I tell of the True Man of Merit whose work is to provide safety of another sort—protection of your valuable papers and your money against forgers and other criminals.

John Fawcett Tyrrell, of Milwaukee, Examiner and Photographer of Questioned Documents, is internationally known as among the most skilled and expert of such specialists. Born in Melbourne, Australia, he was brought to this country when a child. In his youth he met noted document examiners and became interested in the work in which he has since specialized.

His experiences have been as fascinating as the best of detective stories. Through his apparently uncanny, but actually scientific methods, he has aided in solving many cases, including the famous Molyneux homicide case (New York, 1899), the Lindbergh kidnapping case, and the Leopold-Loeb murder case in Chicago in 1925. At this trial Mr. Tyrrell's evidence was accepted without cross examination by the defense attorney, Clarence Darrow. Besides these cases there have been dozens of others of forgeries and fraudulent elections which have been revealed by this man who long has been known as the "Wizard of the Pen."

Plus his own keenly analytical ability, John Tyrrell has every modern photographic, chemical and mechanical device to aid him in detecting forgeries, or falsifying of documents. He recently has taken as his first associate, Mr. Donald Doud, of Los Angeles, who has been engaged in similar work for several years.

If a summer driving trip takes you through beautiful scenery, don't try to view it all from a moving car. Pull off the road and stop. Then you can get an eyeful in safety.

DEFINITIONS IN RHYME

One always must pity the badger-ed poor cuss
With a wife fretful, complaining;
in a word—QUERULOUS.

A NOSTRUM is a medicine, and often the "quack" kind;
Plan, or scheme, are other ways in which the word's defined.

A psychologist declares that there is an evident decline in our powers of imagination, due to the present wide distribution of facts. Does his category include the item of the bathing-beach blues in G-string and parsimonious pectoral covering?

When you leave for your vacation, shut off home gas and water connections. Also disconnect the electric master switch, unless the current is required for a refrigerator or locker. In that case, disconnect other appliances and lamps at the wall sockets.

FIREMEN GAIN FULL GAME OVER RIVALS

Fire Company No. 1 gained a full game in its struggle for a playoff spot in the Bristol Suburban Softball League by beating the Fifth Ward Sporting Club, 5-3, last evening on Memorial Park field.

The triumph put the fire-eaters one game behind the Warders who are clinging to fifth position in the circuit. The first five teams in the loop will have playoff honors.

Fifth Ward rallied in the last inning to score a run and still had a runner on base with no one out but Liberatore, Cordisco, and Pierandozzi failed to come through in the pinch.

"Ed" Kornichuck threw them up for the winners and gave the Fifth Ward team seven hits. He fanned four and walked three. His mound opponent was Henry Liberatore who was pounded for eleven hits, including a triple and three singles by Bud Crohe.

The firemen actually won the game by counting twice in the final canto on an error by Siddle Caro, a trip to Cafone, and singles by Kornichuck and Crohe.

MANHATTAN SOAP
SWAMPS ROHM & HAAS

In the biggest upset of the season, Manhattan Soap completely overpowered the Rohm & Haas team, 16-6 in an Industrial League game on the latter's field last evening.

The Fidells Class was in charge of the tables and food, and members of the men's Bible class washed the dishes and put the kitchen in order.

The Fellowship Class sponsored games and contests for the children, and the young adult class had ping pong, darts, badminton, quoits and softball for the older group.

Several short comedy films were shown in the evening.

John Quinn paced the soap workers with the stick, getting four out of five with Terneon and Valponi having three for five, and three for four respectively.

The Manhattan workers scored most of their markers in two big innings, four in the first and seven in the third. While the soapmen were hitting the cover off the ball "Johnny" Gallagher had an easy time in subduing the plexiglas workers.

Dan Mulchick and Horace Tranter led Rohm & Haas with the bat.

START WORKING ONLY
JADE MINE IN U. S.

One in Wyoming Said To
Be Only Such in The
Western Hemisphere

SOME CHUNKS, 3 FEET

LANDER, Wyo., July 22—(INS)—

Between Muddy Gap and Lander in Wyoming, within sight of the old Oregon Trail, the only jade mine in the western hemisphere has started operation.

Out of the huge deposit—which is expected to result in a new market for the semi-precious stone—chunks as large as three feet long, 18 inches wide and 18 inches deep have been taken.

Previously, the use of jade has been limited to jewelry and carvings, or for small inlays in expensive furniture.

Development of the big Wyoming deposit means that the home builder, who wants a touch of luxury, or the designer of a building or theater which needs an "extra touch" can order jade in place of marble.

Harrison S. Cobb, of Boulder, Colo., mine operator and a partner in the American Jade Company, developer of the deposit, believes that the market is unlimited, although supply will still be limited. Processing of the stone is expensive, since it must be cut out of the rough natural shapes by jewelers' tools.

A peculiarity of geology provided jade in a 15 by 30 mile area in Wyoming—the only deposit of its kind known in North America. The fact of existence of some jade in that area has long been known, and about eight tons of the stone have been taken out of Lander in the past 20 years.

All this was found on the surface of the ground. Cobb and other mining men call it "float" or "outcropping."

The new development is a quarry-type operation, and operation started just a month ago.

The large deposit was accidentally discovered by Ted Graham of the historic Graham Ranch, as he was riding the range a few years ago. Graham sold the property to a group of Denver businessmen.

The site of the unique mine is near Split Rock, an important landmark on the Oregon Trail, where covered wagon trains rolled westward in search of wealth 100 years ago. The area is still primitive. Antelope graze nearby and coyotes howl in the morning and evening.

Wyoming jade, Cobb said, has long been shipped to China, where it was carved by expert craftsmen, and then shipped back to the United States for sales as "oriental jade." He recently saw in Cheyenne a jade statuette, 15 inches tall, for sale at $300.

The North American product is technically "nephrite," as distinguished from the Burma jade which is "jadeite." From the Wyoming mine it is shipped to Denver, where processing includes sawing into slabs and cutting into shapes, to order. All of the finished polished products are custom made to order.

"JAP" BEETLES MAKE APPEARANCE IN STATE

Seen in Limited Numbers in Various Parts of Pennsylvania

FED'L RESTRICTIONS

HARRISBURG, July 22—Japanese beetles have made their first appearance in the Harrisburg area and have been seen in limited numbers in other parts of the heavily infested southeastern Pennsylvania section, the State Department of Agriculture announced.

Federal restrictions on bulk movement of fruit, vegetables and cut flowers only by motor truck and refrigerator cars from 14 counties are now in effect, according to Dr. Thomas L. Guyton, director, Bureau of Plant Industry. Inspections on such shipments will continue in this area of heavy infestation until about mid-September.

Hot weather has brought the beetles out about a week earlier than last year, but they will not appear in large numbers until about July 1 and will reach peak numbers about August 1, Dr. Guyton explained.

Best control is spraying with a DDT solution made with three tablespoonsfuls of 50 per cent wettable DDT powder in a gallon of water, or two pounds per 100 gallons where large quantities are desired, he said.

No additions have been made this year to the restricted, heavily infested area which includes the following counties: Adams, Berks, Bucks, Chester, Lancaster, Lehigh, Montgomery, Northampton, Philadelphia and York.

These and all other counties in Pennsylvania, except 69 townships in Erie, Crawford and Mercer Counties, are in what is known as the "regulated area" and year-round restrictions are maintained on shipments of soil, manure and nursery stock.

Horticulturists Plan To Re-Plant Memorial Trees

TREVOSE, July 22 — The nearly 200 who gathered in Trevoise community house, Tuesday evening, enjoyed pictures flashed on the screen of magnolia gardens and cypress trees in the vicinity of Charleston, S. C. Charles Boss, of near Hulmeville, who showed the films recently returned from a trip to that state.

Mr. Boss explained that the cypress gardens are so large and dense that guides are required to accompany the tourists. Some of these trees, it was said, are eight feet in diameter.

Pictures of azalea bushes, some of them 12 to 14 feet high, and what are known as the Butterfly Lakes in Middleton Gardens were also shown.

During a brief business session in charge of the president, Robert W. Tuckey, announcement was made that the community house, in which the society has been holding its meetings for years, has been leased to the school board. Announcement has been made that the society has made arrangements with the school authorities to continue holding meetings in the community house. Several years ago, the society planted five dogwood trees outside the community house as a memorial to the late Robert B. McKenney, a former president of the society. Because the house will be used for school purposes, these trees will have to be moved. Suggestion was made that these trees might be planted at Washington Crossing.

Dr. Ethel R. Hankele, Neshaminy chairman of the fall flower show committee, asked the cooperation of members in arranging for the exhibit for September 16 and 17. Highlighting the meeting was an informal flower show in charge of Mrs. John Davis. Winners were listed as follows: arrangement in a small-necked container, arrangement in a gravy boat and arrangement in a shell, Mrs. Edward Linforth; roses, Mrs. S. B. Johnson; arrangement for novices, Mrs. William Sharkey, and annuals and perennials, Dr. Ethel R. Hankele.

By the Rev. Edward G. Yeomans
Pastor

We come unto Thee, most gracious and loving heavenly Father in that great Name, the only Name given among men whereby we must be saved, and we thank Thee for the right and privileges which is ours to lay claim to Him as our personal Lord and Saviour. Enable us to realize our need of Him as our Saviour. Awaken within us the faith that will enable us to embrace Him as our Lord and Saviour. Quicken our spirits that we might serve Him faithfully and diligently. Hear our prayer, continue Thy favor toward us, as we pray in Jesus' precious Name. Amen.

SPORTSMEN'S BRIEFS

BY JOE ELRISON

First trip . . . journeyed to Beach Haven yesterday with the Rotary Club when we were the guests of John Roberts, former borough engineer. Of course the itinerary included some bay fishing, and here's what happened:

There were 29 Rotarians and three guests in a fleet of three boats. Because of the crowded condition of the boat on which Emil Metzger and I found ourselves we climbed to the bridge and watched the array of talent below. Fifteen minutes before the captain's warning whistle to pull all lines for the return trip nobody had a fish. At that point "Old Salt" Emil went below to the fishing deck, borrowed a line, and within 15 seconds had hooked into a big one. As he hauled in his prize toward the mate's gaff, however, excitement increased and in a matter of another few seconds some of the less experienced anglers aboard had fouled all the lines and the fish was lost.

Still trying . . . the annual picnic and outing of the Newportville Rod & Gun Club, originally scheduled for July 10th, was rained out on that date. It was then set for July 17th, and again was rained out. Here is what the club secretary, Walt Parker, wrote me this week:

"This is to inform you that our picnic, scheduled for July 17th, was rained out again. We plan to hold it next Sunday, July 24th. Bring all your family and friends. No tickets necessary. Plenty of parking space. Don't bother to pack a lunch as sandwiches and hot dogs will be sold on the grounds. Refreshments, games, dancing. Prizes, playground and games for the kiddies with swings and slide. "Joe, we intend to hold this picnic even though it rains every Sunday until Christmas."

Repaired . . . an emergency arose last week when it was discovered that four of the pheasants being raised at the home of George Blitliff, Sr., Edgely, for the Edgely and Bristol clubs, had escaped through rusted and weakened wire on the top of the huge outdoor holding pen.

Sunday morning that emergency was remedied when members of both clubs removed the entire roof section and put on all new wire. The pheasants were kept in the brooder house while the work was being done.

The four birds which escaped were kind enough to stay nearby and were later lured back into the pen.

Porgies aplenty . . . five Sixth Warders, Zenno Karp, Joe Pettit, Ray Karp, Oscar Herman and S. E. Scott, fished the porgy grounds four miles offshore from Brille last Sunday for an extremely productive fishing session.

After a good drenching from the rain and four hours of mighty rough fishing, during which time the men had to hang onto the boat rails, the skipper put into port with catches for the 22 men aboard ranging from 50 to 150 porgies each. A few bass, kings and blacks were also landed. Clam bait was used and two-at-a-time was the usual haul.

Just one unpleasant thing for 20 of the 22 men aboard . . . they all were properly seasick! Fish averaged about 2 pounds. Second place in the pool went to Joe Pettit with a 24 pound seabass.

Suggestion . . . July, August and September are vacation months for most Americans. It's time to look over the old tackle box, oil up the reels, check the lines and make ready for a few days or a week along a stream or on a lake, suggests the National Wildlife Federation. There isn't anything in the world that brushes the cobwebs out of your brain any quicker than to commune with nature while out fishing. To feel the strike of a bass or a trout is a thrill and to land the fish that didn't get away gives you a feeling of exhilaration that lifts you out of your troubles and makes you feel like the man you know you ought to be. No matter whether you find yourself on an old nearby mill pond or in some far-away sparkling stream—go fishing. It will do both yourself and your family a lot of good.

One more try . . . trout season ends for 1949 on July 31 and we expect to give it one more try in the Poconos this weekend. All the fishing men are against any success for the trip, so perhaps this time we may hook into a few big ones.

HIBERNIANS PLAY A TIE GAME WITH VOLTZ; SCORE, 4-4

The Hibernians were involved in another tied game last evening as they battled the Voltz-Texaco contingent to a 4-4 deadlock on Lee-don's field.

Joe McDevitt and "Bill" McGerr were the hurlers in the tilt with both getting hit in spots. McDevitt allowed 10 hits while the Hibs had 9 hits off McGerr. McGerr's mates committed four errors while the Hibs played good ball afield, being charged with one error.

At one stage of the contest, the Corson Streeters had a 4-2 advantage but the gasmen scored a run in the fifth and then tied up the game with another marker in the seventh.

The tieing run was scored after "Johnny" Rodgers had made a sensational shoe-string catch of Barney Ludwig's liner that appeared labeled for a hit. The catch caught Saxon off first for a twin-killing. However, Dave Morrell singled, stole second, and scored on Alex Dewsnaps hit to left center.

"Jimmy" Cooper tried to pull the game out of fire for the Hibs in the last part of the seventh by singling to right. After Klein was out, MacDonald also singled. But Jesse Vanzant lined back to Pappaterra and Cooper was doubled off second.

The Voltz-men scored a run in the first on a double by Morrell and singled by Kohler. Its second run in the third was the result of a walk to Cross, a stolen base, and infield hit.

The Hibs scored twice in the third. Rodgers beat out a bunt, Dofar sacrificed, Morrell erred on Walker's hit and Rodgers scored. An error and squeeze bunt permitted Walker to score.

Two more runs went to the Corson Streeters in the fourth. McDevitt singled and Rodgers hit. Rodgers advanced on a bunt by Dolan with McDevitt scoring. Hanmer's fly to deep left enabled Rodgers to score with ease.

TULLYTOWN HOLDS ST. ANN'S TO 4 HITS

TULLYTOWN, July 22 — St. Ann's A. A. was held to four hits last evening as it lost to the Tullytown A. C. ten, 6-1, in a Bristol Suburban Softball League game on the King Farms field.

It was "Tiny" Deitzler who gave the "Saints" the assortment of pitches that were hard to hit. Deitzler gave up a run in the first and then whitewashed the Wood Streeters the remainder of the game. Two walks helped the "Saints" to score their run in the initial frame.

"Moony" Denny pitched for the losing team and was battered for ten hits. He went bad in the first inning after it appeared as if a double-play had pulled him out of difficulty. But after the twin-killing, Denny passed Rappo and then came hits by Stan Carlen, Roy Lynch, "Bill" McSherry, and Tony Biancosino. Angiletti ended the inning by flying out to the short-field.

In the sixth inning, Roy Lynch rapped out a triple with Carlen on base to give him three runs driven in. Another double-play came to Denny's rescue in this canto.

Denny's rescue in this canto,

"Bill" McSherry led the batters of the contest with three out of three.

It was Tullytown's 14th win of the campaign and it gave them a full game lead on second place, a game and one-half away from the league-leading Second Ward team.

A SUMMARY OF THE NEWS

The Senate ratified yesterday the North Atlantic Treaty, $2 to 13, without reservation. The vote, more than 6 to 1, was far larger than the two-thirds majority needed.

A Senate subcommittee, holding that local property taxes "can no longer bear the full burden of providing adequate and suitable school facilities," approved a bill for national school construction to aid states and "distressed areas."

President Truman minimized the importance of his meeting last week with atomic energy officials. There is no imminent crisis or toward international development, he said.

The President gave his military aide, Major General Vaughan, freedom to testify before any Congressional inquiry into influence in obtaining Government contracts.

"Nearly all the difficulties arising in remodeling Germany" have resulted from President Roosevelt's demand at Casablanca for unconditional surrender. British Foreign Secretary Bevin declared during a debate in the Commons in answering Conservative criticism of British policy. Winston Churchill, in reply, said that while he had agreed with President Roosevelt's terms the British Cabinet had not been consulted and probably would not have agreed.

The Truman Administration suffered a double defeat in the House when the Brannan farm program was overwhelmingly defeated and a substitute continuing the present system of support was adopted, 383 to 25.

UNHAPPY ENDINGS

Because of the country's unsurpassed private enterprise system and richness of resources, Americans have long been schooled to expect the happy ending. Until recently that point of view was reflected almost 100 per cent in the nation's literature.

Now many Americans are being influenced by propaganda which is slanted in a different direction. Their traditional great expectations are beginning to be tempered by the thought that perhaps things will not turn out so well after all.

The United States News, a magazine which reports and interprets governmental affairs at home and abroad, hazards a few interesting predictions. Among them are:

Old time virtues of frugality, hard work and self reliance will be played down. Stress of the "gimmies" will be intensified. The Treasury will be pumped for everything it can produce. When the dollars run low the taxpayers will be blamed by every country for not providing everything everybody would like to have.

Weaning time for Uncle Sam's foreign dependents is a long way off.

As for America's influence in foreign affairs, the News predicts that Uncle Sam's views will not be accepted abroad. American goods will be bumping against the artificial barriers of the countries holding their hands out for more and more of Uncle Sam's largess. The United States will pay the piper, but it will not call the tune.

In all conscience, isn't there something better than that in prospect for the United States of America? In stopping communism, must this country lose the respect of those it is saving? Surely the thought and action of America can produce a happier ending than that.

WASTED GESTURE

If anyone was about to say that the last place he'd dream of hearing the homely admonition "Be a good boy" would be in the U. S. District Court in New York where 11 U. S. communists are on trial, they can choke off the unuttered sentiment. For sheer aimless childlessness, the conduct of the defense during the 27 weeks the trial has been in progress takes some kind of prize.

Benjamin J. Davis Jr., New York City councilman and one of the defendants, earned the warning the other day from Judge Harold R. Medina, who is no Judge Kaufman. Judge Medina has already jailed two of the defendants and two spectators for outrageous conduct during court sessions. Presumably he wanted to warn Davis that the witness was getting close to the line.

Davis flared back that he wouldn't be a good boy, which is what might have been expected. So the judge's well meant gesture was largely wasted. On the basis of Davis' previous conduct, telling him to be good would have about as much effect as telling a rabbit to stay away from the lettuce.

Now-and-Then Beauty Routine Won't Accomplish Very Much

The average head of hair needs a weekly shampoo, so make this part of your regular beauty routine. To get it extra clean, try using a brush.

By HELEN FOLLETT

DON'T be a good-looks slacker. Fall behind with your beauty home work and you'll be giving yourself a black mark, won't make the grade. It is procrastination that gives pulchritude ills a head start. They are difficult to overcome when well established—the neglected complexion, for instance, that is crying out for healing creams and lotions; hair that would respond and glisten at the friendly touch of the hair brush; nails that have gone brittle because they need an oily soaking.

If one's youthful looks are not to do a fade-away one must keep marching. Treat blemishes before they arrive; that is what you must do about wrinkles. You haven't got them, so condition your skin that it will not fall into fine lines, not before you are 100 years old anyway.

Make Plans

Make your plans, stick to them, willy-nilly, rain or shine. Brush your hair every night, maud your scalp for a few minutes, never space shampoo longer than a fortnight. By that time your wool is in need of renovating, will look dull and neglected. Don't fancy that putting the gray polish on your finger nails is all the attention they need. A little friction with cream every night will keep them delicate, of good coloring.

The daily bath will not only make you appear dainty, but it will put pretty pink bloom in your cheeks because it stimulates the functions of the skin all over the body.

Give thought to eating habits, since nutrition has much to do with the strength of the teeth, the musculature of the body and—believe it or not—your disposition. Many women who are intent on reducing are fussy and ill-natured because they are hungry.

Get your beauty sleep. Don't overdo the need of exercise out of doors. Does all this sound like a big order? It isn't. It's a part of the daily job.

1ST TRANSCONTINENTAL FLIGHT MADE HISTORY

PROGRESS IS SHOWN

By Leon Shloss

(I. N. S. Aviation Writer)

WASHINGTON, July 22—(INS)—Only 20 years ago all America was agog over the first "transcontinental" air service. Today's millions take plane travel as casually as their meals, but thousands fought to take the first trip which accommodated only 20 persons.

A glance through the aviation history tomes provides striking evidence of the phenomenal progress which has been made. You need only read about those original "transcontinental" hops.

"Transcontinental" is in quotation marks because the journeys actually weren't. They comprised a train ride from New York to Columbus, a plane hop thence to Waynoka, Oklahoma, train again to Clovis, N. M., and then the last air jump to Los Angeles.

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, fresh from his conquest of the Atlantic, turned down all offers to enrich himself via the testimonial route.

and laid out the system for Transcontinental Air Transport, which was to become today's TWA. For this the company paid him a quarter of a million dollars.

Lindy made so many preparatory flights that he told a questioner his home was in "the United States of America for awhile."

The Lone Eagle piloted the first eastbound plane on its first leg and then flew the first westbound plane to Los Angeles. Throngs gathered at every airport, with government, military and entertainment big-wigs fighting for parts in the ceremonies.

TAT worked for 14 months preparing the service. It found that of the thousands of pilots in the country, only 38 had enough experience to hire. Of these, 17 had to serve co-pilot apprenticeships.

The 10 tri-motor Ford planes the company used held 16 passengers but TAT announced only 10 would be carried to provide maximum luxury and safety. "Tea and luncheon to be served aloft in aerial dining car service" made headlines when announced.

First flight was July 7, 1929. Price, including lower berths on trains, was $351.94. To cross the country by train in those days cost $320 with drawing room. The present TWA fare is $157.85.

The famed Amelia Earhart joined TAT just before the first flight to give advice concerning luxuries, refreshments, and other details which women demand on planes.

On the big day Lindbergh sat in the office of California's Gov. C. C. Young, where a telegraph loop had been rigged to Pennsylvania Station in New York City. At exactly 6:05 p. m., New York time, Lindy pressed a button which flashed light in Penn Station. The Colonel said:

"As people begin to use airlines they will discover that speed, safety and comfort are to be found in the air. They will discover that they will make use of air transportation whenever possible or wherever it is available."

In Penn Station, the light flashed, a band played "California, Here I Come," and the train making the first leg of the first "transcontinental" flight moved majestically out of the terminal.

At Columbus next morning 6,000 people braved a drizzle to cheer the celebrated travelers on their way.

Meanwhile, at Los Angeles, Mary Pickford—dressed in white and bearing an armful of roses, broke a bottle of grape juice across the nose of a Ford tri-motor. She christened it "The City of Los Angeles." Shortly thereafter, with Lindbergh at the controls the plane took off on the first eastbound journey. A throng of 100,000 roared.

At Winslow, Ariz., the first leg was completed "without a single bump." When the westbound plane arrived at Winslow, Lindbergh took over the controls and piloted it into Los Angeles. There another crowd had assembled. As passengers told reporters "we've never been more comfortable or less wearied." Gloria Swanson christened the ship. Grape juice again.

The westbound flight was not completed without a minor incident. The second section arrived at Los Angeles ahead of Lindbergh's plane and had to cruise around for half an hour to let the Colonel land first.

So it all began, with fanfare of bells and flashing lights, speeches and movie stars.

Now 20 short years later—short in transportation history—we just hop over to the airport and walk aboard unnoticed.

MEN OF MERIT

A part of the purpose of this column is to preach personal safety. In this sketch I tell of a true Man of Merit whose work is to provide safety of another sort—protection of your valuable papers and your money against forgers and other criminals.

John Fawcett Tyrrell, of Milwaukee, Examiner and Photographer of Questioned Documents, is internationally known as among the most skilled and expert of such specialists. Born in Melbourne, Australia, he was brought to this country when a child. In his youth he met noted document examiners and became interested in the work in which he has since specialized.

His experiences have been as fascinating as the best of detective stories. Through his apparently uncanny, but actually scientific methods, he has aided in solving many cases, including the famous Moymeur homicide case (New York, 1899), the Lindbergh kidnapping case, and the Leopold murder case in Chicago in 1925. At this trial Mr. Tyrrell's evidence was accepted without cross examination by the defense attorney, Clarence Darrow. Besides these cases there have been dozens of others of forgeries and fraudulent elections which have been revealed by this man who long has been known as the "Wizard of the Pen."

Plus his keenly analytical skill, John Tyrrell has every modern photographic, chemical and mechanical device to aid him in detecting forgeries, or falsifying of documents. He recently has taken as his first associate, Mr. Donald Doud, of Los Angeles, who has been engaged in similar work for several years.

If a summer driving trip takes you through beautiful scenery, don't try to view it all from a moving car. Pull off the road and stop. Then you can get an eye in safety.

FIREMEN GAIN FULL GAME OVER RIVALS

Fire Company No. 1 gained a full game in its struggle for a playoff—not in the Bristol Suburban Softball League by beating the Fifth Ward Sporting Club, 5-3, last evening on Memorial Park field.

The triumph put the fire-eaters one game behind the Warders who are clinging to fifth position in the circuit. The first five teams in the loop will have playoff honors.

Fifth Ward rallied in the last inning to score a run and still had a runner on base with no one out but Liberatore, Cordisco, and Pierandrizzi failed to come through in the pinch.

"Ed" Kornichuk threw them up for the winners and gave the Fifth Ward team seven hits. He fanned four and walked three. His mound opponent was Henry Liberatore who was pounded for eleven hits, including a triple and three singles by Bud Crohe.

The firemen actually won the game by counting twice in the final canto on an error by Seddie Caro, a walk to Calone, and singles by Kornichuk and Crohe.

Skippers Have Hands Full in Races Here

In the deepest of yachting traditions the Bristol Yacht Club members officially installed their flag pole, Tuesday evening. Commodore John Dodds then raised the first official club flags in the presence of members and their wives.

On Wednesday evening, two one-mile sailboat races were held. The skippers had their hands full as a strong southeast wind whipped up the river. In the first race, Commodore Dodds came in first, with Melvin Locke and "Joe" Cherubini second and third, respectively. The second race caused some mishaps and John Dodds and Allen Stomback were unable to complete the race. John Cherubini was first, Melvin Locke second, and Chauncey Stoneback third.

Much progress has been made towards the dedication and regatta, with many organizations donating trophies for the winners of the races. The dedication ceremonies will take place on Sunday, August 7th, at one p.m., with Jacob Schmidt, burgess, officiating.

MANHATTAN SOAP SWAMPS ROHM & HAAS

In the biggest upset of the season, Manhattan Soap completely overpowered the Rohm & Haas team, 16-6 in an Industrial League game on the latter's field last evening.

John Quinn paced the soap-workers with the stick, getting four out of five with Ternezon and Valponi having three for five, and three for four respectively.

The Manhattan workers scored most of their markers in two big innings, four in the first and seven in the third. While the soapmen were hitting the cover off the ball "Johnny" Gallagher had an easy time in subduing the plexiglas workers.

Dan Mulchino and Horace Tranter led Rohm & Haas with the

START WORKING ONLY
JADE MINE IN U. S.

One in Wyoming Said To
Be Only Such in The
Western Hemisphere

SOME CHUNKS, 3 FEET

LANDER, Wyo., July 22—(INS)—

Between Muddy Gap and Lander in Wyoming, within sight of the old Oregon Trail, the only jade mine in the western hemisphere has started operation.

Out of the huge deposit—which is expected to result in a new market for the semi-precious stone—chunks as large as three feet long, 18 inches wide and 18 inches deep have been taken.

Previously, the use of jade has been limited to jewelry and carvings, or for small inlays in expensive furniture.

Development of the big Wyoming deposit means that the home builder, who wants a touch of luxury, or the designer of a building or theatre which needs an "extra touch" can order jade in place of marble.

Harrison S. Cobb, of Boulder, Colo., mine operator and a partner in the American Jade Company, developer of the deposit, believes that the market is unlimited, although supply will still be limited. Processing of the stone is expensive, since it must be cut out of the rough natural shapes by jewelers' tools.

A peculiarity of geology provided jade in a 15 by 30 mile area in Wyoming—the only deposit of its kind known in North America. The fact of existence of some jade in that area has long been known, and about eight tons of the stone have been taken out of Lander in the past 20 years.

All this was found on the surface of the ground. Cobb and other mining men call it "float" or "outcropping."

The new development is a quarry-type operation, and operation started just a month ago.

The large deposit was accidentally discovered by Ted Graham of the historic Graham Ranch, as he was riding the range a few years ago. Graham sold the property to a group of Denver businessmen.

The site of the unique mine is near Split Rock, an important landmark on the Oregon Trail, where covered wagon trains rolled westward in search of wealth 100 years ago. The area is still primitive. Antelope graze nearby and coyotes howl in the morning and evening.

Wyoming jade, Cobb said, has long been shipped to China, where it was carved by expert craftsmen, and then shipped back to the United States for sales as "oriental jade." He recently saw in Cheyenne a jade statuette, 15 inches tall, for sale at $300.

The North American product is technically "nephrite," as distinguished from the Burma jade which is "jadeite." From the Wyoming mine it is shipped to Denver, where processing includes sawing into slabs and cutting into shapes, to order. All of the finished polished products are custom made to order.

Horticulturists Plan To Re-Plant Memorial Trees

TREVOSE, July 22 — The nearly 200 who gathered in Trevoise community house, Tuesday evening, enjoyed pictures flashed on the screen of magnolia gardens and cypress trees in the vicinity of Charleston, S. C. Charles Boss, of near Hulmeville, who showed the films recently returned from a trip to that state.

Mr. Boss explained that the cypress gardens are so large and dense that guides are required to accompany the tourists. Some of these trees, it was said, are eight feet in diameter.

Pictures of azalea bushes, some of them 12 to 14 feet high, and what are known as the Butterfly Lakes at Middleton Gardens were also shown.

During a brief business session in charge of the president, Robert W. Tuckey, announcement was made that the community house, in which the society has been holding its meetings for years, has been leased to the school board. Announcement has been made that the society has made arrangements with the school authorities to continue holding meetings in the community house. Several years ago the society planted five dogwood trees outside the community house as a memorial to the late Robert B. McKenney, a former president of the society. Because the house will be used for school purposes, these trees will have to be moved. Suggestion was made that these trees might be planted at Washington Crossing.

Dr. Ethel R. Hankel, Neshaminy chairman of the fall flower show committee, asked the cooperation of members in arranging for the exhibit for September 16 and 17.

Highlighting the meeting was an informal flower show in charge of Mrs. John Davis. Winners were listed as follows: arrangement in a small-necked container, arrangement in a gray boat and arrangement in a shell, Mrs. Edward Linforth; roses, Mrs. S. B. Johnson; arrangement for novices, Mrs. William Sharkey, and annuals and perennials, Dr. Ethel R. Hankel.

MOVIEONE NEWS

First trip . . . journeyed to Beach Haven yesterday with the Rotary Club when we were the guests of John Roberts, former borough engineer. Of course the itinerary included some bay fishing, and here's what happened:

There were 29 Rotarians and three guests in a fleet of three boats. Because of the crowded condition of the boat on which Emil Metzger and I found ourselves we climbed to the bridge and watched the array of talent below. Fifteen minutes before the captain's warning whistle to pull all lines for the return trip nobody had a fish. At that point "Old Salt" Emil went below to the fishing deck, borrowed a line, and within 15 seconds had hooked into a big one. As he hauled his prize toward the mate's gaff, however, excitement increased and in a matter of another few seconds some of the less experienced anglers aboard had fouled all the lines and the fish was lost.

Still trying . . . the annual picnic and outing of the Newportville Rod & Gun Club, originally scheduled for July 10th, was rained out on that date. It was then set for July 17th, and again was rained out. Here is what the club secretary, Walt Parker, wrote me this week:

"This is to inform you that our picnic, scheduled for July 17th, was rained out again. We plan to hold it next Sunday, July 24th. Bring all your family and friends. No tickets necessary. Plenty of parking space. Don't bother to pack a lunch as sandwiches and hot dogs will be sold on the grounds. Refreshments, games, dancing, Prizes, playground and games for the kiddies with swings and slide. "Joe, we intend to hold this picnic even though it rains every Sunday until Christmas."

Repaired . . . an emergency arose last week when it was discovered that four of the pheasants being raised at the home of George Bintliff, Sr., Edgely, for the Edgely and Bristol clubs, had escaped through rusted and weakened wire on the top of the huge outdoor holding pen.

Sunday morning that emergency was remedied when members of both clubs removed the entire roof section and put on all new wire. The pheasants were kept in the brooder house while the work was being done.

The four birds which escaped were kind enough to stay nearby and were later lured back into the pen.

Porgies aplenty . . . five Sixth Warders, Zeno Karp, Joe Pettit, Ray Karp, Oscar Herrman and S. E. Scott, fished the porgy grounds four miles offshore from Brielle last Sunday for an extremely productive fishing session.

After a good drenching from the rain and four hours of mighty rough fishing, during which time the men had to hang onto the boat rails, the skipper put into port with catches for the 22 men aboard ranging from 50 to 150 porgies each. A few bass, kings and blacks were also landed. Clam bait was used and two-at-a-time was the usual haul.

Just one unpleasant thing for 20 of the 22 men aboard . . . they all were properly seasick! Fish averaged about 2 pounds. Second place in the pool went to Joe Pettit with a 2 1/4 pound seabass.

Suggestion . . . July, August and September are vacation months for most Americans. It's time to look over the old tackle box, oil up the reels, check the lines and make ready for a few days or a week along a stream or on a lake, suggests the National Wildlife Federation. There isn't anything in the world that brushes the cobwebs out of your brain any quicker than to commune with nature while out fishing. To feel the strike of a bass or a trout is a thrill and to land the fish that didn't get away gives you a feeling of exhilaration that lifts you out of your troubles and makes you feel like the man you know you ought to be. No matter whether you find yourself on an old nearby mill pond or in some far-away sparkling stream—go fishing. It will do both yourself and your family a lot of good.

One more try . . . trout season ends for 1949 on July 31 and we expect to give it one more try in the Poconos this weekend. All the fishing omens are against any success for the trip, so perhaps this time we may hook into a few big ones.

HIBERNIANS PLAY A TIE GAME WITH VOLTZ; SCORE, 4-4

The Hibernians were involved in another tied game last evening as they battled the Voltz-Texaco contingent to a 4-4 deadlock on Lee-dome's field.

Joe McDevitt and "Bill" McGerr were the hurlers in the tilt with both getting hit in spots. McDevitt allowed 10 hits while the Hibs had 9 hits off McGerr. McGerr's mates committed four errors while the Hiboes played good ball at field, being charged with one error.

At one stage of the contest, the Corson Streeters had a 4-2 advantage but the gasmen scored a run in the fifth and then tied up the game with another marker in the seventh.

The tying run was scored after "Johnny" Rodgers had made a sensational shoe-string catch of Barney Ludwig's liner that appeared labeled for a hit. The catch caught Saxon off first for a twin-killing. However, Dave Morrell singled, stole second, and scored on Alex Dewsnaps hit to left center.

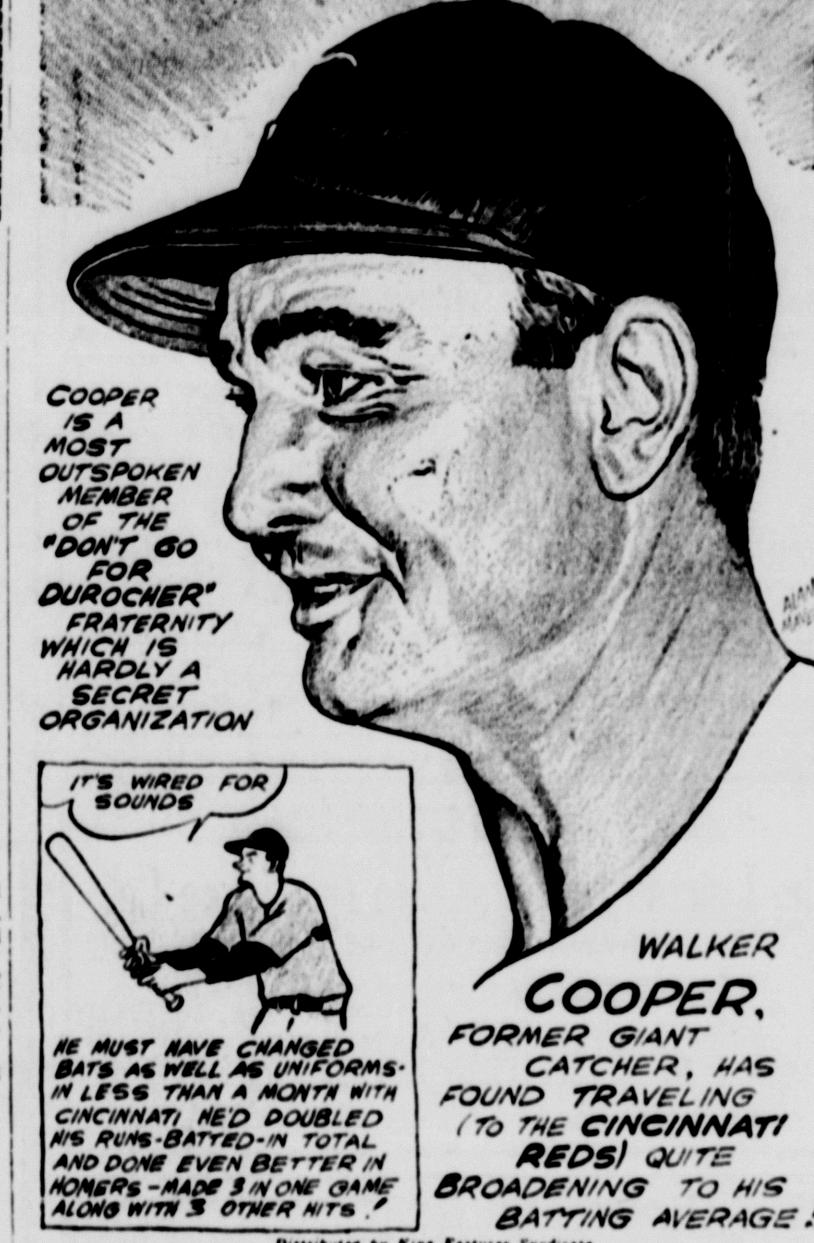

"Jimmy" Cooper tried to pull the game out of fire for the Hibs in the last part of the seventh by singling to right. After Klein was out, MacDonald also singled. But Jesse Vanzant lined back to Pappaterra and Cooper was doubled off second.

The Voltz-men scored a run in the first on a double by Morrell and single by Kohler. Its second run in the third was the result of a walk to Cross, a stolen base, and infield hit.

The Hiboes scored twice in the third. Rodgers beat out a bunt, Dolan sacrificed, Morrell erred on Walker's hit and Rodgers scored. An error and squeeze bunt permitted Walker to score.

TULLYTOWN HOLDS ST. ANN'S TO 4 HITS

TULLYTOWN, July 22 — St. Ann's A. A. was held to four hits last evening as it lost to the Tullytown A. C. ten, 6-1, in a Bristol Suburban Softball League game on the King Farms field.

It was "Tiny" Deitzer who gave the "Saints" the assortment of pitches that were hard to hit. Deitzer gave up a run in the first and then whitewashed the Wood Streeters the remainder of the game. Two walks helped the "Saints" to score their run in the initial frame.

"Moony" Denny pitched for the losing team and was battered for ten hits. He went bad in the first inning after it appeared as if a double-play had pulled him out of difficulty. But after the twin-killing, Denny passed Rappo and then came hits by Stan Carlen, Roy Lynch, "Bill" McSherry, and Tony Biancosino. Angiletti ended the inning by flying out to the shortfield.

In the sixth inning, Roy Lynch rapped out a triple with Carlen on base to give him three runs driven in. Another double-play came to Denny's rescue in this canto.

"Bill" McSherry led the batters of the contest with three out of three.

It was Tullytown's 14th win of the campaign and it gave them a full game lead on second place, a game and one-half away from the league-leading Second Ward team.

WEST BRISTOL STEPS UP INTO THIRD PLACE

West Bristol A. C. stepped up into third place in the Bristol Suburban League last evening with a close 8-7 triumph over Edgely A. C. on Memorial Park field.

The West Bristol win came after a six-run outburst by the Edgelyites in the first three frames.

Jim Ellis' lads then came to the bat in the fifth and scored twice to make victory certain. Harry Saul started the frame by hitting a single. Earl Wagner was hit with a pitched ball. Killian bunted and on slow fielding received a base hit with Saul scoring on the play. Ken Heath sacrificed, advancing the runners. Rhodes' long fly to left field enabled Wagner to cross with what proved to be the winning run.

Hits by Adams and Bob Elker and an error gave Edgely an run in its half of the inning to put them one behind but with the tying and winning runs on base, Ralph Linck lifted a long fly to right field.

Carl Wagner was the winning moundsman, he receiving credit for his fourth win of the season. John Pindar, Dick Harman, and "Bill" Dunkelberger threw them up for Edgely.
